

AUTO DAMAGE CASE IN JURY'S HANDS

The $28,000 damage suit of William A. McCollum of this city against James H. Hyde of North Franklin for injuries sustained in an automobile accident in September, 1919, which has been tried in the superior court here before Judge Isaac Wolfe and a jury, will go to the jury (Wednesday) morning.

Evidence for the defendant was presented in court Tuesday morning by the following witnesses: George E. Gross, William D. Terry, George B. Parker, William McArthur, Gilbert P. Flynn, and John E. Smith.

The defendant was called to the stand by his attorneys, Arthur M. Brown and Judge C. R. Waller in closing their case.

Waller put on one witness in rebuttal, Walter P. Moran, and when both sides had closed their cases, the judge announced that the opening argument would be made by the plaintiff's attorneys, Mr. Brown and Mr. Flynn, and the closing argument by the defendant, Mr. Hyde.

The jury, which was called at 10:30 a. m. and then adjourned until this morning (Wednesday) morning.

The accident which the suit arose from happened at night on the road between here and Williamstown when the automobile driven by Mr. Hyde and the machine driven by Andrew W. Smith were in collision, the plaintiff being a passenger in the Smith car. The cars were traveling in opposite directions at the time of the accident.

The arguments dealt principally with the claims of negligence and recklessness in the operation of the two automobiles. From the evidence, Attorney Brown argued that it was shown Mr. Smith was driving as far as he could get in the gutter, the right side of the road when his automobile was struck by the Hyde car. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. McCollum, who were in the Smith car, had testified that it was so far to the right of the road that when they got out after the accident they stepped over the door directly on to a ledge at the side of the road. Attorney Brown claimed that the circumstances brought out by the testimony showed that Mr. Smith had brought his car to a stop to be safe so a speed of 15 to 20 miles an hour was dangerous under the circumstances.

On the other hand, the testimony of witnesses showed that Mr. Smith was driving his car at the rate of 40 miles an hour at the time the accident occurred, and that the further testimony of the witnesses showed that the Hyde car was in the gutter, the right side of the road, while the Hyde car was in the gutter, the right side of the road.

Elmer McCollum, Andrew W. Smith and Elizabeth Smith each have $5,000 suits against Mr. Hyde on account of the accident.

MUSICAL PLAY "MEMORIES" GIVEN WITH FINE EFFECT

Before a very appreciative audience of about 750 "Memories," a single act musical play, was produced at the Palace theatre last night. The play was written and arranged by Henry LaFontaine, an original of St. Mary's church. An original story by Mr. LaFontaine entitled "Memories" was the basis of the play. The story of the play was the reunion of three former art students in a New York studio and the plot developed with the help of the audience's memories.

The scenery was very effective and the electrical effects were well and striking. One feature was a large picture which was shown on the stage and which was changed by the audience's memories. The picture showed a scene from the play and the audience's memories were used to change the picture.

Horace Corning as "Jack" carried his part admirably and having lost track of his twin sister, came to New York where she had relatives, among them the late Mrs. James P. Gillette. She was with him in the play and for 30 years was housekeeper for the late Chief Justice Paul on Laurel Hill.

For many years following she resided alone on Laurel Hill and later became a member of the family at the Shelburne Arms. About two years ago she was taken to the hospital where she has since been.

Miss Nugent was a woman whom every one admired because of her fine and active nature. She was born in Ireland in 1859 in a family with Charles Dickens at the request of Miss Fields. After remaining in Ireland for a year she came to America and having lost track of her twin sister, came to New York where she had relatives, among them the late Mrs. James P. Gillette. She was with him in the play and for 30 years was housekeeper for the late Chief Justice Paul on Laurel Hill.
